RIVER ARTS DISTRICT ARTISTS ASHEVILLE, NC

Welcome to the River Arts District (RAD), one of the largest arts districts in the United States. In working studios, galleries and classrooms spread among 23 historic buildings, over 240 artists create and share their art with visitors daily all year long. For details on artists' individual hours and locations, visit our website or use this Studio Guide to aid your exploration and enjoy a day—or more—exploring the diverse art and artists in the RAD. As our district grows in amenities and population, we remain independent artists promoting the RAD through our artist association, RADA. Our major transportation project to improve sidewalks, greenways and roadways will be completed this fall, with overwhelming cooperation and ongoing communication with the City of Asheville. We hope you enjoy your time in our unique and exciting River Arts District.

Industry to Artistry

In the 1880s the Norfolk Southern Railroad began service alongside the ancient French Broad River in Asheville. It brought industries and a population boom, until the historic 1916 flood devastated the railroad and the businesses it served.

When downtown Asheville began an urban renaissance in the 1970s, artists looking for affordable space began to move into buildings along the river. Highwater Clays was first, moving to Lyman Street in the mid-80s. In 1987 Porge and Peter Buck opened Warehouse Studios, calling the Warehouse artists “the river avant-garde.”

RAD Pioneers

1987: Steve Keull bought the 1910 Armour Star Meat Packing Plant, 375 Depot Street

1989: Patti Torno bought the 1916 Standard Oil Co, now Curve Studios & Garden

1990: Helaine Green and her sister acquired the 1902 Hans-Rees Tannery, now Riverview Station

1995: Brian + Gail McCarthy bought Clingman Ave. Complex, now Odyssey Center, Jonas Gerard Fine Art and Ultra Coffeebar

2002: Sculptor John Payne bought the 1916 Farmer's Federated Ag Co-op, now the Wedge

2003: Ceramic artists Marty and Eileen Black bought the 1887 Cotton Mill building

Historic Buildings

•Riverside Studios: general store built in 1891

•The Hatchery: chicken hatchery built in 1955

•Eco-Depot Marketplace: Part of the Glen Rock Hotel, built in the late 1800s

•Pink Dog Creative: 1920s textile warehouse

•362 Depot Street: 1900s general store and meat processing plant

•NorthLight Studios: tannery built in 1904

•The Lift Studios: National Biscuit Company built in 1907

•Warehouse Studios: Williams Feed Company built in 1901

A Vibrant Community on a Treasured River

Since its beginnings the River Arts District has grown rapidly. Historic buildings are still being purchased by artists for studios and co-ops, and today scores of studios are open daily and hold special events throughout the year. The first Studio Stroll was held in 1994 with a few artists; today 240+ artists' studios open during the second weekend in November, and studios are open every day, year round.

Currently the RAD is undergoing improvements to create a vibrant, long-term urban plan recognizing the French Broad River and its arts district as one of Asheville's great treasures.

Information compiled by Wendy Whitson. Visit riverartsdistrict.com/history for more.

What will I find in the River Arts District?

Working art studios, galleries, restaurants, breweries, wine bars, public art and more! Explore our website at riverartsdistrict.com for updated information.

How do I get there? Where can I park?

Consult the online map on the RAD website if driving. The RAD is just a few minutes from downtown Asheville. Parking is free on the street or in studio lots; and no meters! The W1 and W2 buses also serve the RAD; visit ridetheart.com for details.

When are you open? When's the best time to come?

The RAD's 240-plus artists keep individual schedules, but on any day throughout the year you will find scores of open studios and galleries. Many open from 11-5, some from 10-6, with later hours — and free trolley service — for special events such as Second Saturday each month and Studio Stroll on the second full weekend in November. Saturdays are always good open studio days. Check the RAD website “Who's Open” page, and if you want to see a particular artist or art form, check the “Artists” section of the site or search a name for location and hours.

Can I ship art home? May I photograph the art?

Most artists are happy to pack and ship your purchases. Please ask the artist or studio/gallery before taking photographs.

Are there places to eat? What about public restrooms?

There are restaurants, cafes and pizzerias, coffee and tea shops, breweries and wine bars throughout the RAD; find them marked with a knife and fork or wine/pint glass on the Studio Guide map (pages 30–31). Most studios and eateries have restrooms they are glad to share, and there is a public restroom at 8 River Arts Place, open daily from dawn to dusk.
